

WHY IS MARS RED

By Madison S. Ramirez

Well if you ask me why Mars is red, I have the answer. I had a great, great, great, great, great, great, grandfather who saw what happened. And as the years went by, the same exact words from the same exact story went by year after year, generation after generation. Well, here goes the story.

HERE GOES THE STORY ; )

One night, it was the time for the fireworks to begin, at a huge, big enormous star known as the Sun. Every planet in the galaxy was invited. However, only nine of all the planets were able to come. To get inside the big stadium, all the planets had to make a line.

Mars was so excited about the special day. So in that case Mars didn't want anything to get in his way of being the first one in line.

Finally, it was the big day for the fireworks, and Mars was so excited about it. So, as Mars quickly floated to the stadium, Mars ran into a planet named, Mercury. Mars was very upset that Mars rudely said, "Pardon me, but I have to get to the stadium." So Mercury got upset and speedily floated to the stadium. On his way, Mars, bumped into another planet named, Venus. And again, Mars rudely said, "Pardon me, but I have to get to the stadium."

So Venus got upset and floated even faster than Mars. Venus was second in line. On his way, Mars, was so upset that he turned pink. And still on his way to the stadium there was another planet named, Earth. Earth asked, "Why are you pink?" And Mars angerily, "Well, that's because I'm so mad because so far , two planets, Mercury, and Venus have cutten in front of me. Well, in you're going to cut also, the that'll make it three." " Of course I am!" Said Earth cheerfully as he floated in front of Mars.

And that's how Mars turned red. . .
